These stunning wash troughs are manufactured from a 14mm thick solid surface material. Solid surface is a generic name given to material produced by combining polymer resins with marble and limestone.

The wash trough is space efficient, easy to clean and more hardwearing than conventional vanity units that incorporate basins. This model is designed to be installed onto an underframe or vanity type cabinet (not supplied) that provides adequate support. Unsightly pipework and plumbing fittings are therefore hidden from view.

This solid surface wash trough features a gel coat to achieve a beautiful white gloss finish that is non-porous and resistant to staining and yellowing. This material is resistant to chemicals, chips and scratches. The inherent properties of the material also make this model more resistant to the growth of bacteria.

The wash trough is supplied without tap holes which, due to the solid surface material, can be drilled to meet individual customer requirements.
